"Hey Sarge, I nailed another leafleter in front of the draft center."
THE CRUCIFIXION OF EDWARD R. LYNN

(See note: the following is a statement written by Edward Lynn. It is un-edited.)

Social discrimination is thought of as something that has been and still is that which will always be. This thought is widespread in America with areas unacknowledged from its williness.

I am Edward R. Lynn (with the military label: NN 1300152) stationed at the United States Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif. This being the largest military hospital in the world, it should be the one to set examples and instill improvements, also, it should be the one, no less than others, to satisfy the people under its command. Instead, this command has been unfair and unjust to the people under its authority.

Disj usted with the racism practiced here I decided to use every legal aspect to help diminish the injustices.

Good morning, Dr. Love

EXPERIMENTAL COLLEGE

There is a growing feeling among students throughout the country that traditional higher education is inadequate, irrelevant, and obnoxious. Far too often the educational system lacks relevance to the students' personal lives.

It fails to deal with the serious personal, social, and political problems that confront us every day. Students who are concerned about the problems of war, the draft, the police state, the lack of meaningful social and interpersonal communication, and the overwhelming nature of a mass, de-humanizing society are becoming increasingly frustrated at the inability of American higher education to seriously deal with these issues.

The bureaucratised, structured nature of higher education does not allow for inquiry into the relationship between human knowledge and emotion. Professional devotion to intellectual pedantry results in the neglect of feeling and emotions—important levels of human existence.

The education system as a large part serves as a transmission belt for the values of middle-class America. In essence the general rule is for men to become marketable and women to become marriageable. The American college and multi-versity has been reduced to a mere political and economic instrument to serve an impersonal and representative society.

An experimental college is a positive reaction to these dissatisfactions. It is an endeavor to develop a creative alternative through courses unavailable in the (Cont. on Page 3, Col. 1)

Vol. 3, No. 3, October 19, 1967
"SIT","You shouldn't know from it!"

BEING THAT the complexities of this problem is very lengthy and involved, I will give a short summary of some of the important events and hope to elaborate at a later date on this campus.

In early August I wrote the following:

on a voluntary statement obtained at the security office here:

We hereby state that this United States Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif. does practice discrimination and has infringed on the constitutional rights of the African-American subject to law of this installation.

We feel the Federalism government has not done its job in protecting the law of the land and we as subjects of the federal government, specifically of this command, have suffered most from injustices practiced at this Naval Hospital.

Under this statement I obtained thirty-five signatures from Army, Navy, and Marine, and civilian personnel.

A copy of this statement was submitted to the security office which is normal routine. This statement apparently reached the commanding officer.

Several witnesses of the statement were called into several offices of high authority, but I will concern this instance to the commanding officer since he is that.

Dear Admiral R. H. "Tarlen", U.S.N., commanding officer, immediately called in some of the witnesses. Instead of truth being sought which was the common thought, these people were harassed and subjected to (Cont. on Page 7, Col. 2)

ABOVE ALL HE WAS A REVOLUTIONARY

Che Guevara is dead. He was killed, according to the American trained counter-revolutionary Bolivian army, while fleeing in the Andes.

The thirty-nine year old Argentine revolutionary left a disillusioned and disappointed man. So says the Bolivian authorities. Che was a modern day aristocrat, one who adapted Marxism to conditions as they exist in Latin America. Guevara did not shirk, however, to the Marxist theory that there has to be a "revolutionary situation", and that it must ripen before there can be a thrust to power.

If the Field diary the Bolivian army claims to have taken from Guevara's body is a factual representation of Che's thought, then indeed the revolution was premature. However, the failure of this particular attempt at revolution will not alter the situation in Latin America.

(Cont. on Page 2, Col. 2)
It is hard to know how to respond to the two attacks on SDS in the last Teaspoon: one so trivial that it reads like a put-on, and the other is so vicious that it appears to signal a break in relations. There is really nothing to say about an article that begins by citing Lenin and accusing SDS of not being true revolutionaries and ends by applauding an SDS member for sounding "like some sort of lefty". It is the second article that concerns me because it is a deliberate attempt to sabotage the SDS campaign and because it contains more distortions than the average letter article on SDS.

There are a number of errors that would be trivial if they weren't deliberate. SDS is accused of not writing for Teaspoon. Aside from the fact that this is hardly a crime, the editors are well aware (because I told two of them) that SDS has been pressed for time due to the elections, but that I, and other SDS members, would be writing for Teaspoon after the election. It is said that SDS "failed even to seek people to apply for the many appointive positions" in the student government. Some SDS people have, in fact, applied for these positions, and I personally tried to convince a fellow named Ron K., who wrote the article, to apply for the finance committee, but was explained that he wanted to go to Berkeley next year and would be too busy studying.

The central charge is that SDS is a small, socially-exclusive in-group: the letter might believe that charge, but it's hard to see how Teaspoon could. I met with people from Teaspoon for over two hours. I told them that it would be good if non-SDS radicals, particularly Teaspoon people, ran as candidates and helped write the platform. I even got a promise out of that meeting from an editor that he would try to interest Teaspoon people in running and that, in permitting, he would help us write the platform on the University. The SDS platform was not written by a small group: every plank, every idea, was approved by a general meeting of SDS members. Those active in SDS prepared drafts to present to the meetings, and before each (Cont. on Page 5, Col. 2)

GOOD MORNING TEASPOON
4465 Arizona St., S. J. 92115

Managing Editor: Jon Gullege
Don Kenterud
Ron St. John
Jim White

Contributing Editor: Helen Colonna

Distribution: Mike Illigan

Art: Pete Hemp

Letter: Doug Sikt
Kathy Jameson

Staff: Judy Adel
Laine Ayotte
Alvin Ayvette
Ann Haymaker
Scott Johnson
Ann Kenterud
Bill Eckert
Becky White

Articles which appear in Good Morning Teaspoon reflect the opinions of the editors except those which are signed. Articles from the staff or editors will henceforth be designated as such. Signed articles reflect the opinions of individuals and are published by Teaspoon for public interest, debate, and response.

Teaspoon Subscription Rates

To give those who cannot regularly obtain Teaspoon an opportunity to do so, Teaspoon is offering a special donation subscription for $5.00. Send donation, name and address to 4465 Ariz. for a full year of Teaspoon including special issues.

CHE GUERRA (Cont. from Page 1, Col. 2)

It is only a matter of time before the "revolutionary situation" will ripen, and Che Guevara will again rise to the call of the situation. This is not merely idle speculation since the "facts" concerning Che Guevara's death may again have been greatly exaggerated as they were in 1965, after which he returned to lead the Bolivian guerrillas.

Again the "death" of Che Guevara has been announced again the reliability of the source is doubtful. The Bolivian officials who reported his death were unable to agree as to the disposal of the body.

When his brother arrived to identify the body he was told that it had been buried and his request to have it exhumed was denied, "out of respect for the corpse." Later, the Bolivian president, Bermejo, announced that the body had been cremated; but to alleviate any doubt as to the validity of Che's death, his fingers had been saved for identification.

If Che is dead it will be a set-back for the Latin American revolutionary movement, but it will not be the defeat that U.S. officials would like to imagine. So long as U.S. capitalism remains in control of the economy of South America, and so long as the majority of the people are relegated to living at a sub-human level, the revolutionary environment will continue to ripen.

Then the time is right a Che Guevara will appear to lead the oppressed people against their oppressors.
WASPS . . . BEGIN CIVILIZING YOURSELVES!

The white population of San Diego is being kept ignorant of the fact that a black revolution is going on in America. The local "news" media allows only slanted reports of what the Blacks are thinking, talking about, and doing to reach the ears of white San Diegans.

The Peasoon does not purport to know what black America is thinking, talking about, or doing but we will attempt to bring the views of the Black leaders to the attention of our readers.

We will, in this issue, begin a serialization of a speech by H. Rap Brown which he delivered at an anti-war rally last spring.

(The editors wish at this time to make their position on the Black revolution clear--we support it.)

"You know, I saw a sticker one time that said, 'I wonder what happened to Lee Harvey Oswald now that we really need him.' You know, that proves just one thing--Rockefeller, because he's the enemy also.

You see, you people are chumps. You have been going at Lyndon Johnson when you ought to be looking all around you, because you've got to do a thorough housecleaning before you can end the war in Viet Nam.

This is a key thing to note: George Bernard Shaw once said something about America. He said, 'America is the only country that has come from barbarism to decadence without going through civilization.' So, to all the white activists that feel that they have been 'disenfranchised' by the Black movement, you better begin to civilize yourselves, or else it's going to be our job to come and civilize white folks when we get through with business.

THE RESOLUTE FACULTY

The Faculty Senate is a lie. It is a lie in the same way that Congress is a lie and that student councils are a lie. All purport to represent the interests of their constituents against the powers that be; all pass resolutions, none take action.

At a meeting last Tuesday, the Faculty Senate passed a resolution "exploring" the loyalty oath but passed nothing in support of Dr. Edwin Willis' refusal to sign it. This is like being for motherhood but against babies.

Passing resolutions does no good to anyone, but one wonders what kind of faculty organization cannot even resolve something in support of one of its own fellows. One comes to view the Faculty Senate as something the administration gave the Faculty to play "democracy" with.

The reason that the Senate passed the resolution against the loyalty oath is that it is "totally ineffective." This implies that if it were effective in its oppression it would be fine. We wonder why they didn't resolve to institute an effective oath.

It is little wonder that the faculty on this campus has so little power to effect anything. Its official organ is made up of a bunch of toothless, gutless, academic hacks who will do nothing to rock their microcosmic world.

By not supporting Willis, the Faculty Senate is, in effect, disagreeing with the action that he took. In other words, they will not say anything, much less do anything, that might anger their employers.

As one would expect, the debate that took place at the Faculty Senate meeting had to do with the wording, not with the content of the resolution. Students take heed! From the example of these, your venerable teachers, pay little attention to the content of what they say--just watch their working.

--2d.

PERSONAL ADS

tomasson is accepting personal ads. For information as to prices, number of words, etc. call Ted Hemp at 298-2915.

Page 3
LESSONS ON GUITAR (ALL STYLES)
BANJO (ALL STYLES)
AUTOHARP - HARMONICA
DJEMBE - OBON
VOCAL HARMONIES AND SINGING STYLES
AT FOLK ARTS
3753 INDIA STREET

ALSO RECORDS - BOOKS - CRAFTS AND GALLERY

"Trader" Brew

The Paisley Pelican

5023 NEWPORT A. F.

Features: Light Shows - Posters - Buttons - Trippies

Coming Soon

The Shop
EXPERIMENTAL COLLEGE (Cont. from Pg.1, Col.1)

The experimental college is based on a theory of self-motivation. There is no force, except from within oneself, to use the experimental college as a learning tool.

The unstructured nature of the experimental college permits a wide variety of new educational experiences. Flexibility in course content and structure will be the atmosphere of the EC at SDS.

Lecture courses on subjects not available at SDS, total environment courses such as sensitivity groups and craft courses and community action oriented courses will all be included. The courses may be initiated by one organizer, by a group of organizers, or simply by individuals organizing themselves.

The courses could be held in the organizers' homes, on campus, in a rented hall, or in an environmental setting. The Faculty Coordinator and two SDS members or those from other institutions, or simply other interested individuals who wish to become involved.

The success of experimental education depends upon the participants. We are hopeful that you will accept the challenge. An experimental college is being initiated on this campus. More specific information about participation in the EC at SDS is now being distributed to both faculty and students.

---Ann Monkerud
EC Coordinator

REUNIONS (Cont. from Page 2, Col. 2)

general meeting there was a meeting of the platform committee, open to all, which also drafted planks to present. The membership often overruled the committee: the resolution on the ghett0 rebellion came from the floor and was substituted for the committee's report, and a proposal $500 budget, which took five hours to prepare, was also defeated.

There is, as anyone who has read the platform knows, not the slightest echo of socialist language, 1930 or otherwise, in the platform. My own feeling is that this is a serious weakness. There should have been an explicit analysis of what capitalism, and the alternative is socialism.

But the platform has a number of strengths as well as that one weakness. It breaks down the traditional distinction between on and of-campus issues: it sets forth student programs around issues like Vietnam and the black revolution, along with clear-cut demands for, in Jasnosn's words, a 'real student voice in campus affairs'. The platform is both radical and relevant.

Monkerud has a number of ire predictions in his article: the campaign will fall an SDS will be impotent an isolated. Actually, the campaign is already a success. We have succeeded in injecting issues into what formerly was a sterile popularity contest and a battle between competing Greek machines. All the discussion around the election has centered around SDS last semester.

There may well be a difference in approach and analysis between Don and SDS. Don seems to think that radicals should concentrate on wrestling appointments from Jack Flannigan, while SDS is more concerned with reaching the entire student body, running candidates on a radical platform, and talking to students about that platform, seems to us to be more important than getting on the campaign committee. Don writes that groups like the College Y and the Black Student's Council (his examples) "realize that they have more in common with other students than with the rest of the community". I doubt if this is true (does the Black Student Council feel it has more in common with the white students than with the black community?), and I object to its implications. The isolation of the student community from the black community an the working class is something that should be overcome rather than exalted.

But these differences should be discussed at length in the friendly terms: (Cont. on Page 6, Col. 2)
Our voice will be in more danger against the roar of hate and mistrust of in viruality. All those who have had similar experiences must add their voice rather than remain mute. Perhaps, then, those who have not had such difficulties might recognize some change in the treatment of human by human needs to be effected.

--Stella Bemtok
Asst. Prof. Psych.

DEBUTALS (Cont. from Page 5, Col. 2)
they should not serve to create or sustain a gulf between 446 and 488. There was one encouraging sentence in the last 488:
"The gulf wishes to make it known here and now that it supports the platform of the Student's for a Democratic Social and the upcoming campus election."
It would be nice if 488 would endorse the candidates by name and urge its readers to vote in the election.

--James E. Pickett

Editor's note: Mr. Pickett did not approach anyone on the editorial staff of this paper to manage or remain for office, in regard to aiding in the writing of the platform.

--Ed.

CONCISE HINTS THE VOTES
I am known as the Unknown Soldier...
I am even to understand that I represent all those men who died and were never identified...or found...or buried. These poor remnants that you have entombed here are thousands of men whom you could not find to utter your hypocrites...place medals and guns on these clods...Why should I be placed here in this vault to listen to your inconsistencies...your tears of sorrow...vows that it will never happen again...your parades...your speeches on the glory of those who die...don't you think a corpse can become sick with it? Even the new air bombers...scientific ones...military ones...train schools...massive gunboats...swarming armies and navies...what do these things have to do with the promises you made to me?...you said we save the world for democracy, yet there is tyranny...you said we fought a war...that there would be eternal peace...yet there are bombs and guns and bayonets and...asks...yet they are homes on fire and men lying in the mud and children in pieces. I am sick of it, I tell you...I would a hundred times a day have been left there in the work with my pals than brouh in here and force what I see all this will...there was pain and death and sorrow out there...yes...torched, writhing death...but it was comedy compared to the crime of the thing here...the tragedy of broken promises...votes...pledges...
America is experimenting. She is experimenting on how to commit genocide against two-thirds of the world's population...she wants to control. Now understand this, we put America on notice, if she chooses to play nice, Black folks ain't going to play nice.

She is the biggest outlaw the world has ever produced. His name was probably a cattle rustler. America's justice is a joke and it stinks of its hypocrisy.

If she is an outlaw, His Hitler's illegitimate child as far as I'm concerned. And J. Edgar Hoover is his half-sister.

She is committing genocide on about four different levels against the Black people in America. She's doing it through her courts. It's no accident that Muhammad Ali got the maximum sentence and maximum fine.

It's no accident that they put a $25 thousand fine on me for a simply charge. Hell, I wouldn't pay $25 to save the Lady Bird. Understand that's genocide, taking people off the street. It's no accident that over 500 kids die each year in Alabama for lack of food and nourishment. That's genocide.

And then they turn around (and Black people are much smaller and say, "We don't have a birth control program for you", and you chumps buy it. Do you realize that birth control in the Black community is a way of ending that race? You better understand that. When the man is telling you he wants you to use birth control he's telling you he doesn't want your race to grow.

So understand. Vietnam means more than ending the war, to Black people it means ending a type of genocide and bringing the troops home where the real war is. The war is here in America as far as we're concerned.

America has begun to escalate her war against the Black people. She has declared war 600 (sic) years ago and we're just beginning to accept that war.

Understand this, when the Attorney General of the U.S. says that within 20 years the entire work force of the population will be 20% of that population and then he talks about automation and cybernation...and then you look to see who they are training to run the cybermated and automated jobs.

That tells me that the Black people now pose a problem, we've outlined our usefulness for America. We were brought here as slaves to work. The logic is behind concentration camps. And if you don't believe America will put you in concentration camps ask the Japanese from World War II.

Black folks must begin to understand that there is no such thing as a Black moderate. We are far more concerned about the mechanics of America is concerned. She does not move against Black people because they have a Ford or a Cadillac, or because they're a worker or because they are a bum.

She kills you because you're Black. Understand that.

You are going to begin to understand that we can't afford the luxury of individualism...we cannot say that we are individuals because Carmichael and myself cannot fill 29 concentration camps. They got to be getting ready to take someone else.

Edward Lynn

Abusive language. These people were forced, threatened, and provoked action unless they reacted to the admirals demands. The alternative was to contract their names from the statement, or face being sent to Viet Nam or a court-martial.

I have written documented proof of this.

I have been questioned by the administrative officer, security officer, four hours of interrogation by naval intelligence, and one of those long do-not-do-it talks with the heat chaplain. Also, I was given a direct order by the admiral to stop handing out an official press release exposing the truth of the situation which he labelled "inflammatory material".

I was told by the administrative officer (third in command) to submit a special request for release. From active duty if I was not happy with the Navy, which I immediately did and was planning to do anyway.

I wrote a three-page statement concerning my reasons for release from active duty and two small parts were abstracted to use as evidence for charges against me. They are as follows:

1. I will fight this country in every legal possible until the time when a full scale revolution begins to wipe out the greatest hypocrites of all time. led by a cowboy and a gang of ticketers.

2. I am stationed at the United States Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif. which is lead by one of the most corrupt administrations I have ever witnessed. The commanding officer is the most educated type vasaband in existence in this country.

The charges respectively are:
1. Disrespect to the President of the United States, Art. 134 UCMJ.
2. Disrespect to the Command Officer of this command, Art. 99 UCMJ.

After all this I have not even mentioned the discriminatory acts practiced here. I hope to elaborate on this later at this campus. Also, I hope to cite the games played here to side step the whole situation.

"America is the leader of the free world."

—Edward R. Lynn

The social principles of Christianity are driving, but the proletariat is revolutionry.

So much for the social principles of Christianity.

—Ed. 1 Jan
Many people have been concerned and upset by the lack of organized activity by "leftist" organizations in the San Diego area. Most of the organizations have jumped from issue to issue with little consistency and less effort to educate others about the issues and programs in which they are involved.

Students of the Independent Left (SIL) at USD has begun to rectify the problem of lack of education and lack of involvement which for the past several years have plagued new left groups. For the past several years SIL has been presenting seminars and informal discussion groups to inform members and other interested students of their programs.

SIL cannot tolerate:

the explosion of barbarism from the depths of our own society against those most innocent most deserving of such punishment (see, for example, "Children of Vietnam", available in the Boyle Hall Chapel);

daily use by our elected representatives of the terms "peace", "freedom", "social justice", to designate war oppression and counter-revolution;

the outbreak of civil war in our cities;

the almost unbelievable waste of human and natural resources by the "greatest society on earth"; and a thousand other human follies of our age.

To change these conditions SIL says, "They issue the opposed views of the world in seminar sessions; they sell and distribute political literature; they show films; they publish a magazine; they take part in the draft-resistance movement; they march in anti-war protests; and they take part in student-university relations."

All those interested in the Students of the Independent Left contact:

Lowell Bergman
1-753-3992 or call USD, ext. 1045

ARTICLES, COMMENTS, ETC.

Anyone having articles, letters, poems, complaints, etc., send them to:

Good morning Teaspoon
j/o Jim White
4465 Arizona Street
San Diego, 92115

All copy becomes the property of the Teaspoon and the editors reserve the right to do their job.

STAFF MEMBERS NEEDED

Teaspoon believes there are still people who are interested in working on the staff. Anyone interested in or willing to do printing, distribution, fund raising, movie reviews, book reviews, or news reporting contact the editors at 4465 Arizona St. 295-4791.

A nickel or dime isn't going to break anybody (unless UBS keeps upping his war charges). So how about coming across with some bread so that we can make it citywide.

Send money to:

Ron St. John
4531 Dixie Drive
San Diego, 92109

"FIRING LINE" REVISITED

In the Thursday, October 12, 1967, issue of the Daily Aztec there appeared in column one, page two, a letter written by one Frank Frye (Grad student). This letter was aimed at the "nasty, bearded, leftist group called SDS, After a brilliant misreading of the platform of SDS, Mr. Frye launched into a wonderfully American beautifully emotional, and patently ignorant attack on all those who oppose war, killing, censorship, imperialism, motherhood, worship, and all the other sick sacred cows of our society.

Mr. Frye has, with statements like 'We are in Vietnam to check and contain the spread of communism so that the Vietnamese people and everyone else in the world can have the right to choose between a privileged way of life or tyranny,' attempted to place SDS on the firing line. Teaspoon doesn't know what SDS thinks of this, but teaspooon thinks that Mr. Frye ought to be on a firing line. Now about "name for starters?"

CINEMATIC MAJURA

"You're a Big Boy Now", playing at the Academy theater is one of the great movie moments in banality and non-originality. It's all about this jelly-livered boy in New York (THE BIG CITY), a nice girl, and a brazen hussy. It seems that Bernard has had difficulty in acquiring a complete set of male characteristics and the usual twenty-year-old sense of independence. To all of you lay psychologists his problem is this dominating mother who refuses to let "her baby" grow up (cute wrinkle, huh -- worth a million laugh). From the very beginning the plot is all too predictable. The director has tried to embellish his masterpiece by throwing in wild camera angles and psychedelic touches, unfortunately they only fall to interest the freakest acid-head. "Big Boy" contains the usual comic chase scenes and shaming affection from good ol' mom. The ending is wonderfully happy - brazen hussy shows true colors and is rejected - nice girl is accepted to his dubious be-all end all safe for our hero.
This insert does not suggest that the political-ideological views of SdS and Teaspoon are identical of even similar. However, Teaspoon does wish to indicate that it thinks the SdS slate is the reasonable alternative to the AS candidates now running for office.

Many of you have read the 4-page SdS platform. Basically, it flows from two central ideas.

First, students should control their University. We make a number of proposals to implement this idea; establishing a student-run experimental college, having 50-50 representation on all academic committees and control of the AS budget. We've suggested some alternatives in programs for AS funds, but equally important is our proposal amending the AS constitution to make it easier for students to vote on budget questions, referendums, and constitutional amendments.

Second, the distinction between on and off-campus issues must be broken down. The AS Council is a union of students and it should reflect and take action concerning the political issues affecting students - particularly the war, the draft and the black revolution.

Our objection to student govt. is not that it is unreal or irrelevant, but to the contrary. It is quite effective and relevant in achieving its purpose.

Beginning in grade school, we all went through the "let's pretend" process of electing home room officers. In high school it was the student council, and so on into college. Through it all few of us doubted that our self-govt. had power, but we all knew that the teacher or principal had the final say-so in most of our affairs. Did not this process effectively achieve its purpose? We learned to compromise in the face of arbitrary authority. We learned to surrender our freedom. We learned that elections should be personality-oriented popularity contests and that the issues with which we should be concerned should be the most banal. Is not the debate over who has the prettiest poster an example of this? We also learned about "responsibility" and "working inside the system". Was not all of this an adequate preparation for life in this society? Are national, state, and local elections any different? The force of it all is evidenced by comparing the reality of our public lives with the ideal were given to revere. Even so, we were taught also to smirk at idealism. We learned our lessons well, so well in fact that some of us have embraced a cynicism so deep that the quality of our lives has been permanently impaired. We have reached a situation where James Bond is the ideal of many students. Student govt. reeks of the worst aspects of this sickness.

An important aspect of this campaign is WHY we are running. The SdS Slate is not running so it will look good on their records, or because we like publicity or like to build signs. Neither are we running because it is the latest thing for "student activists" to do. We're running because we want to see some change in the social and political structure of this country. "We" doesn't mean just SdS - it means every student on this campus because it is highly unlikely that there are many students here who are entirely satisfied with things as they are, and that would work for change if they thought it possible. One of the important things we have to say is that change is possible. We don't want just any change, We have to make some decisions about the kinds of changes we want to see. We're going to have to say NO to some things and demand other things in their place. And we can't limit our efforts to the university alone. We have to get rid of the idea that the role of student and citizen is separated from that of citizen - that a campus is an ivory tower.

That kind of attitude is contrary to the whole philosophy of education, that of preparing us to deal intelligently and effectively with personal, local, national, and world problems. The only way we will ever learn this is by doing it - by beginning now to deal with the things that affect our lives.

In response to criticism, SdS has officially shifted its position 7° 24' 26" to the left.