PROLOGUE

Quincy Quadrangle—that's me. . . . Born here, raised here. . . . Flunked ninth grade twice here. . . . I'll never forget my high school years, all 20 of them. . . . But that's all over now. . . . None of that high school stuff for me. . . . I'm definitely college material. . . . Good head. . . . Wasn't I voted most likely to recede? . . . A guy doesn't get to be somebody unless he works. . . . Education-that's the thing. . . Ma always said a man without an education is like a ship without a sail. . . . Or is that a song? . . . Anyway, I figger, all this talent ain't gonna go unpolished. . . . A few years in college and who knows what I'll be doing then. . . Maybe a doctor or a lawyer, or maybe even a riveter at Convair. . . . Yep, only one thing for Quincy-that's education.

Easy. . . . Heck, yeah. . . . State College? . . .
Snap. . . . Plenty of chicks. . . . Lots of lovin' and a big frat pin. . . . Yippee! . . . State, here I come! . . . Which way? . . . Gimme a transfer. . . . Thanks. . . . Fight on, fight on, ye Aztec men. . . .

Dear Great Aunt Hepzibah:
Yippee-State College! . . . What more could happen on my first day in the big time? . . Meeting people. . . Saluting deans. . . . Bowing to the president. . . . I'm bushed. . . Fraternities and sororities. . . Signing up for classes. . . . The dinks. .. . These frat boys are all right. . . Had a guy ask me to join the same fraternity Abe Lincoln was in. . . . Sounds like a good deal. . . . Also got a hot tip on a class offered here. . . . Called basket weaving. . . . Guy said it was a snap. . . . This school looks okay to me. . . Guess I'll stay.

All this since my trip to the Caf? . . . They can't do this to me. . . . Don't know how they expect me to take this stuff when they won't let me in. . . . Think I'll pull a real sly one on the advisor. . . He'll never know I'm not taking Psych. . . How does he know I'm not a Senior?

REGISTRATION

What a priority number! . . . Another class closed out. . . . Monstrous line. . . . Check the board for cancellations. . . . Surely in this school there's a classroom with lots of vacant seats and a professor lonely from 12 semesters without capacity enrollment. . . . Health Ed closed out. . . . Get an alternate quick. . . . Wonder who'd like to trade with me for fencing. . . .

These are my thoughts as I am thrown into that havoc called "registration." My counselor says take a class, 1 try and find it closed out, so I juggle and cram and tear my hair and finally find just the one for me.

Features four term papers and 5,000 pages of outside reading, and a class project of rebuilding the science building. . . . Oh, well-what's a few nights blazing over a hot typewriter? . . . Just a few more hours I won't have to go out to the fraternity house and party it up. . . . My Dad always said, "Son, there's just nothing like a few good courses." . . . That's just what my schedule shows. . . . Nothing like a few good courses.

The end of the line at last! Survivor Bing Chico receives his library card.
"Class 88 has just been closed. Please check your schedules and make the proper changes." Just my luck!
"Brown . . . Wright . . . Allen. . . ." Why don't they call my name so I can get out of here? . . . Wonder if they'll notice that upper division course.

Boy, did us Frosh ever come through. . . . Ain't shovin' us around. . . . Well, we did fine until Oceotl put on the clamp. . . . Practically put us out of commission, but not until we dumped about half interest in the Gold Medal company on them. . . . Revenge, by George! Those dinks, huh! . . . Not for us. . . . We'll show 'em what's what and who's got the brute force. . . . Kangaroo Court. . . "The defendants will step forward." . . Step forward? . . . We'll run-but not without ammunition. . . . Lots of eggs. . . . All rotten. . . . Destined for an upperclassman's head. . . . Water all over me. . . . He's got pretty good aim with that hose. . . . They got it back, though. . . . Hazing. . . . Smazing.

OPERATION FROSH

Show my A.S. card, get my ballot. . ; Wait for a booth and I'm in. .. Big election. ... Who's this character running for Veep? . . . Hasn't got a chance. . . .

ELECTIONS

What a maze of posters to wade through. . . . Guess everybody's running for something. . . . While in Rome, do as the Romans, I always say. . . .

Big-time stuff. . . . A-Z-T. . . . I'm winded. . . . Leave the strenuous part to Stone. . . . Women. . . . Not bad-not bad at all. . .

RALLIES

Coach giving the big scoop on the game. . . . Pretty tough boys, huh? .. We can beat 'em-sure, we can beat 'em. ... What's a little extra weight?

SPECIAL EVENTS

A crowd estimated at 2500 turned out early this Fall when Operatic Baritone John Charles Thomas presented an informal concert in the Main Quad. Presenting such selections as "Home on the Range" and "Sixpence," Thomas easily sold himself to his large audience and showed a well-developed sense of humor with such quips as "I hope the chemistry students will forgive me" while giving advice to music students.

How many times has Dr. Hepner passed through this door since he became president of San Diego State College some 17 years ago?

SALUTE IO HEPNER

Now that Dr. Hepner is returning to private life after 39 years of public service as a California educator, he and Mrs. Hepner plan to spend six months exploring America, gathering material for social studies textbooks. He has already written several books now being used in various schools.

Dr. Hepner began his career in education as a teacher in Oxnard. Later, he became a Long Beach principal and then superintendent of schools in Fresno. Because of the outstanding job he did there, he became city schools superintendent in San Diego in 1928, then moved another step up the ladder of success to become chief of the state's Division of Secondary Education in 1934. He was named president of San Diego State College 20 months later.

President Hepner has worked night and day to improve our school. His boundless energy served him well in meeting the problems of a vigorously growing college. His capable staff of advisors had imagination and initiative, and together they were able to solve these problems. He would accept full responsibility when an idea backfiredhe never passed the buck.

In his "spare" time, Dr. Hepner has been a useful citizen to society as a whole. Governor Warren twice named him to state committees, one on juvenile justice and the other on mental hygiene. He also was special advisor on secondary education to the occupation forces in Germany when a program for de-Nazification was being developed.

President Hepner's remarkable accomplishments have focused much favorable attention on San Diego State College. Even in retirement, he plans to continue the career of service he started 39 years ago.

Dr. Hepner's tireless efforts to "put San Diego State College on the map" are evidenced by such programs of campus expansion.

Dr. Hepner is retiring. During his 17 years as president of San Diego State College, his ideas and dreams have both brought prestige to State and improved and expanded the advantages offered students.

Although the college has improved in many ways during these years, it is not for material reasons that students and faculty will remember Dr. Hepner. He has been a good president -not only was he able to take care of the necessary paper work and strive for continual improvement, but at the same time he had an understanding of students' problems and needs and a desire to help them.

Since he did recognize the problems of the student body, he gave students every opportunity to help themselves by setting up student government. Dr. Hepner visualized the college campus as a laboratory for democracy. His philosophy included student-faculty voice in matters affecting them. Because of President Hepner's philosophy, San Diego is known as one of the most democratic colleges in the nation. He realized that participation in a democratic student government is excellent training for leadership and citizenship.

Dr. Hepner has always believed that the main job of administrative officials was to be of service to students, and to accomplish this, they should be free to use their own ideas. Because of this belief, he has been able to assemble one of the finest teaching staffs in the nation.

Educators from Stanford, Columbia, Harvard, and other outstanding colleges and universities have come to San Diego. He has welded together an inspired faculty which is constantly striving to improve the curriculum.

In 1935, President Hepner drew up a master plan for future additions to the campus. Community needs have played an important part in the changes. Some 17 years ago, San Diego State was a teachers' college, just moved to this new location.

Although there is still emphasis on teacher education, majors are offered in liberal arts, professional, and technical fields. The enrollment has jumped from 1500 to 4200 , the faculty from 63 to 222

Over 1000 new courses have been added, as well as eight new buildings, four extensions, and an open-air theater, all made possible by the acquisition of 167 additional acres. Although Dr. Hepner has always believed that a well-rounded athletic program is essential, he has fought any attempts at commercialism which would make education and citizenship of secondary importance.

Graduates of San Diego State have had three objectives under Dr. Hepner's philosophy of education-they learned skills which would support them, they gained an appreciation of their country and its background, and they learned how to become good citizens.

Now he is retiring. His 17 years of service and hard work have resulted in a bigger and better San Diego State College with an outstanding faculty and an enthusiastic, democratic student body. Dr. Hepner will be most remembered not for the campus improvements, but rather for his understanding of his students and the way in which he worked for their benefit.

Adoption of a 14-year-old Greek girl, whom they cared for through the foster parent plan, was the biggest project this year for the San Diego State Panhellenic Council, which is composed of two representatives from each of the 11 campus sororities.

Promotion of high college and fraternity standards, and good public relations is the object of the council, which regulates all inter-sorority relations. High scholarship is encouraged by the awarding each semester of a trophy to the sorority with the highest all-over average and another trophy to the individual sorority member with the highest scholarship.

Advisor to the group since its establishment here has been Dr. Katherine Ragen. Virginia Puich served as this year's president, with Shirley McWillie, vice president; Janice Hebner, secretary; and Virginia Janney, treasurer. Officers are chosen on a rotation basis.

Activities during the year included Pledge Presents during the Fall and Spring, a Christmas tea, All-Panhellenic Workshop in April, and a Benefit Bridge in May to raise money for the scholarship fund and foster parent program.

Abstract

"Never before have we seen a comparable student council-one so willing to work and with such a keen insight toward the basis of a firm foundation of student government," has been the repeated comment of faculty advisors and administrative-minded students. This year's council, under the leadership of President Jim Simms, has held a high goal for itself and the entire student body and has made great strides in the direction of a better informed campus, a greater freedom of student leadership, a higher cultural level, and the termination of discriminations which is a retaliating clause used by the Communists "Leave it to Marcy" is another familiar phrase, whether it be a campus social function, M.C'ing or a president's dinner. Not often do we find a "mite" so mighty, but here you have brains, personality and leadership all rolled into one vice president, Marcy Brooks

With any meeting of the year at her finger-tips, A.S. secretary, Anne Freeman, is "Janie-on-the-spot." Serving tirelessly on numerous committees, but always quick with a smile, this effervescent gal deserves plaudits from all . . . . 'Twas a sad shape our budget was in and many an organization was in a deep indigo mood but under the direction and wise planning of Clay Elm the AS Budget Committee can now turn over a rejuvenated account to the ensuing year's officers, and especially to the next commissioner of finance.

Barbara Watson Secretary

Big events on the A.W.S. calendar this year included the traditional "First Nighter" at the Little Theatre, the A. W. S. banquets, highlighted by capping for Cetza and Cap and Gown; "Carry the Books Day" during the Fall, and the second annual "Spring Sing" in Greek Bowl in May.

The A.W.S. -sponsored Big Sister program, designed to orient freshman women with college life, was under the chairmanship of Marian Lofgren. Presiding over Wednesday afternoon board meetings this year was Bobbie MacFarlan. Vice president was Nell Buchanan, secretary, Barbara Watson; and treasurer, Barbara Kupiec.

Composed of every woman student holding an A.S. card, the A.W.S. does much to promote interest among its members in running for student offices and taking a more active part in campus life. The A.W.S. Nominating Convention held each Spring was created for this purpose.

Although faced with a budget cut that slashed their income by more than half, the Associated Men Students, led by President Bob Cornell, turned in a very creditable year. The A.M.S., which consists of every man who holds an A.S. card, offered many activities to its members this year, the first being the Stag Smoker welcoming all new men students to the San Diego State campus. An open house for students' mothers on Founders' Day was another example of the fine planning of this year's A.M.S. officers.

The ever-popular Dad's Day Dinner was one of the biggest events of the year. This year those attending had, in addition to the dinner, the added attraction of State's famous alum, Art Linkletter, who after the dinner displayed his athletic prowess in the alum-ni-varsity basketball game. Also featured at the Dad's Day Dinner was the annual Barbershop Quartet Contest.

Certainly one of the highlights of the year was the benefit dance held at the Recital Hall in Balboa Park to raise funds to send State's great track star, Joe Brooks, to Boston in hopes of qualifying for the Olympic Games. Cornell, along with Vice President Duane Pillsbury, Secretary Tom Roberts, and Treasurer Bill Winn certainly turned in a job well done for the Associated Men Students in the year 1951-1952.

ACTIVITIES OF THE SAN DIEGO STATE COLLEGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA AND THE MARCHING AND SYMPHONY BAND DURING 1951-52.

The Symphony Orchestra under the leadership of Julius Leib enjoyed a year of musical growth. It won praise for its performance in the Music Department Christmas Concert in December at the House of Hospitality Auditorium, as well as the fine showing it made in the Music Department concert during the Religious Emphasis Week earlier in the Fall. On May 18 it added to its laurels in an impressive concert performed at the Masonic Temple in which soloists were featured and important works in symphonic repertoire were presented.

The Marching and Symphony Bands, which have the same personnel, have finished a most active year. Under the able leadership of Norman Rost, the Marching Band rose to new heights of achievement in the stunning football shows and spirited musical performances during the football season. It accompanied the football team to Fresno, where the impression it made can be described as a "tour de force." To Norman Rost we owe the fullest accolades.

MUSIC-AZIEC SIYLE

Following the football season, the Symphony Band conducted by Pattee Evenson made ten concert appearances; four on campus, two in city and county schools, and four downtown in the House of Hospitality. In these concerts over forty works, including three with soloists, were performed, many of them of major proportions representing a wide range of repertoire. High praise was won from both music critics and the public for the hard work and impressive musical growth which the band has accomplished during the year.

The Drama Department of San Diego State College this year presented an outstanding group of plays, ranging from a farcial comedy to an historically important melodrama.

Comedy presentations included Jules Romains' "Dr. Knock" and Lennox Robinson's "The Far Off Hills," which were regarded as outstanding productions on the college level. Both of these productions were staged during the Fall semester.

The Aztec Theatre Guild then followed the humorous vein in the Spring semester with the presentation of George S. Kaufman and Katherine Dayton's "First Lady," a comedy which dealt with Washington politics and society.

Perhaps the most powerful play presented this year was "Darkness at Noon," Sidney Kingsley's adaptation of Arthur Koestler's powerful novel, which brought to light the Russian purge of 1937. This play is regarded as one of the finest dramatic productions ever staged on the State College campus.

A most successful year was culminated by the production of Tennessee Williams' famous play, "The Glass Menagerie," a highly successful presentation of a difficult-to-stage drama.

aZIEC PRODUCIIONS

William Roach was recognized for outstanding work this year in two male leads, but paramountly for a superb job as Rubashov in "Darkness At Noon." Robert Chambers was lauded for his work in "Dr. Knock," along with Robert Halvorsen and William Quiett, for their acting in "First Lady" and "The Glass Menagerie," respectively.

Lois Stephenson, Beverly Lanning, and Dorothy Hicks are regarded as outstanding actresses who deserve much acclaim, as well as Ann Cozens and Janice Gardner, who did great things in "First Lady" and "Darkness."

Other highly talented actors and actresses included John Shilling, Karl Moore, Mason Ingram, Carman Cunningham, Sandra Schissell, Florence Stanley, Dorothy Hicks, Rosemary Rice, Audrey Tennison, Milton Kohut, Richard Stowers, Edward Hickock, Lewis Haley, Claude Jenkins, Stanley Green, Norman Womack, Charles Woolsey, Gifford MacGregor, and Berna Stahl. "Forbes Hill, Henry Shelton and Richard Connolly were the three "prisoners" so well acclaimed in "Darkness."

Robert Cardona, Allan Johnston, and Tom Hays endeared themselves to actors with superb technical work, while all SDSC actors, technicians, and students hold in particular esteem the instructors who made their work possible-Robert Corrigan, E. Kingsley Povenmire, Hunton D. Sellman, and Ken Jones.

Lt. Col. Charles E. Mosse, commanding officer of the R.O.T.C.

Accepted with enthusiasm and interest has been the A.F.R.O.T.C. during this, its first year on the San Diego State College campus. Working to bring about a program of mutual benefit to the Air Force, college, and student, the administration has achieved results which Col. Mosse has described as "very gratifying."

A feeling of self-consciousness first felt among the cadet officers in their new uniforms was soon replaced by one of confidence and pride. The foundations have been laid and there is a bright future ahead for the program.

During the year, the A.F.R.O.T.C. established an SDSC rifle team, set up a wellrounded program of intra - mural athletics, and installed a chapter of the honorary social Air Force fraternity, Arnold Air Society. The college also competed with USC, UCLA, Cal Poly, Loyola, and Occidental for the Lockheed trophy, awarded for excellence in the field and high scholastic achievement.

The first annual "Military Ball," at which the R.O.T.C. queen was crowned, was the big social event of the year. It is Mosse's hope that "the future will bring even more opportunity for us to serve the college."

Who got this one? Aztec End Chet Nicholson is the correct answer. And the ex-Chaffey JC star ran away from his two Marine defenders with this one for a good gain.

Coach George Ziegenfuss, or Dr. Ziegenfuss as he is known off the courts, became head basketball mentor at SDSC in 1948. An All-American basketball selection during his collegiate days at the University of Washington, "Ziggy" was named by Stanford's immortal Hank Lusetti as, "the greatest player I ever faced."
despite a mediocre team record, SDSC 1951 basketballers accounted for several alltime individual records ... Bob Brady sophomore flash from York, Pa. . . . led team in scoring and was responsible for most of the rewritten records ... dumped in 11 field goals and six free throws for 28 points against Occidental ...broke Tom Keesey's single game record of 27 set during 1947-48 season (another Pennsylvanian, Keesey was instrumental in bringing Brady out to San Diego) . . . the immortal Milton "Milky" Phelps' record of 39 points in a two-game series was also bettered by Brady .... poured in 46 points in the two Pepperdine tilts . . . also set what is believed two more all-time records when he netted 12 out of 20 free tosses against Santa Barbara.. Dick Barnes' high scoring average record also fell ... Brady averaged 16.3 points per game and Roy Fields averaged 13.9 . . . both bettered Barnes' 13.1 set in 1945-46 Brady was just 20 points shy of Phelp's high scoring record . . . hit 375 points in 23 games as compared to "Milky's" 395 in 31 contests ... Field's 26 tallies against MCRD is third highest single-game score on books . . . entire team averaged a record 60.3 digits per game . . . previous high was 54.8 by 194950 varsity ... squad also hit $37.3 \%$ of its shots from the floor and $67.7 \%$ from the foul line . . . both are believed to be near record performances according to Coach George Ziegenfuss ... Fields was second in scoring with 319 points . . . Captain Billy Meyer was third with 235 . . Dave McKay hit 191 Bob Reid and Don Metzler added up 130 more points between themselves ...

Ben Seiler, returning Aztec basketball letterman. . was declared ineligible because of 10 semesters ruling took over as capable team manager.

Attelsey coasted to a $: 14.6 \mathrm{win}$. . . upper right, durable Don Wyman finishes second in 2-mile with his season's best time of $9: 50 \ldots$ middle, at the end of the first lap of the 2-mile, Aztec Roland Attebery is right on Wyman's heels, where he stayed the entire race to finish third . . . bottom, Attebery wins a 2-mile against Santa Barbara in an easy 10:11.

Coach Harry Broadbent, Oklahoma born and bred, took over as Aztec wrestling coach in 1949. His 1951 team were National Jr. AAU Champs. Broadbent was a NCAA Wrestling Champion while ottending Oklahoma U.
lack of eligible experienced wrestlers made Aztec squad an unbalanced group with a few sparkling standouts . . . six potential varsity starters were sidelined because of eligibility rulings . . . veteran Dick Robinson and newcomer Benny Wilson gave team luster

Robinson was awarded the Werner Peterson trophy as the Most Valuable Wrestler . . Wilson was acclaimed as Most Improved Wrestler . . . quite understandable, since it was the ace trackman's first try at the grunt and groan sport . . . took time off from track on a rainy weekend to place fourth in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Championships for Aztecs' only place . . . all but two matches were against powerful Service teams . . . as might be expected, shallow Aztecs found the Service talent too experienced . . . locals did upset MCRD and EI Toro Marines . . . other win was over L.A. State by fat margin . . . returning two-year letterman Duane Pillsbury received severe season-stealing injury during "Fight Nite" match . . . took over as energetic manager . . . sports oddity of the year came at SubPac meet . . . 191-lb. match was rained out . . . meet was being held on the after-deck of the sub-tender U.S.S. Nereus . . . lettermen: Aaron Kokley, Benny Wilson, Dick Robinson, Frank Reetz, Avery Smith, Ed Johns and Duane Pillsbury, manager.

Dick Robinson, Aztec Outstanding Wrestler for 1952, mixes it up with NTC's Ken Bourjon in one of the Staters' many meets with local Service teams. Robinson took match by decision.

CCAA CHAMPIONS

. . acclaimed as the "best cross-country team on the Pacific Coast". . . SDSC's 1951 distancemen must be considered among the nation's best . . . attempting the longest and toughest schedule ever, Coach Choc Sportman's Aztec harriers tallied nine wins to two losses ... perfect climax of a great season came at the CCAA Championships when Aztecs Don Wyman, Benny Wilson, Roland Attebery, Jim Hunt and Joe Stowers finished in that order . . . gave SDSC the first conference cross-country trophy with a perfect 15 points . . . in six open AAU runs, two dual meets and the CCAA Championships the amazing Aztec runners defeated teams from USC, UCLA (National Jr. AAU Champs), NTC, L.A. State, Santa Barbara, Culver City AC, Cal Poly, Pepperdine, Occidental, Whittier and Fullerton JC... despite the early season losses of top veterans Tom Sturak and Russ Console to injuries . . . all victories were by lop-sided scores, usually in the low 20's . . . . twice the Aztecs swept the field to win by a shut-out score . . . a feat as rare as a 100-0 football game ... arch-rivals USC dealt only defeats . . . both upsets, lost by a scant two points ... in five meetings the Aztecs topped the Trojans 3-2... because the SDSC team of Joe Brooks, Joe Stowers and Don Wyman had won the National Jr. AAU 15 kilo. Championships during the summer, AAU ruling kept Aztec cross-country team out of the National Jr. AAU Cross Country Championships ... Brooks lengthened distance a bit in the spring to become Pacific Coast's best marathoner and Olympic hopeful . . . won Port of Stockton and Petaluma 26 milers ... Aztec frosh won all their numerous matches with local high schools . . . capped undefeated fall with a close win over Glendale JC, Western Conference Champs, in 10th annual Aztec Invitationals ... also beating Fullerton JC and the USC Frosh.... Varsity lettermen: Roland Attebery, Captain Joe Brooks, Santiago Campbell, Bob Cowan, Jim Hunt, Joe Stowers, Tom Sturak, Benny Wilson and Don Wyman . . Frosh numerals: Joe Ballin, Dave Binney, Larry Clever and Arnold Steele ...

Coach Charles "Choc" Sportsman casts a well-pleased glance at the CCAA Cross Country Championship trophy which SDSC's team brought home this year. Aztec distancemen took the first five places in the conference meet to win by a shut-out score.

one of the best gymnastics teams on Montezuma Mesa since the war ... began season by winning San Diego YMCA Invitational Championships . . . defeating NTC and MCRD . . . for one of the few Aztec sport victories over the talent-laden Service teams . . . competed against some of the best gymnasts in the nation at the Los Angeles City College-L.A. State triangular meet . . . gave exhibitions at local high schools and at half-time of basketball games . . . highlight of the season was Aztecs' lopsided triumph at the Southwest Pacific Border AAU Championships . . Staters have won this event all three years it's been held .... amassed 129 points and two individual championships... Jim Phelps won the rope-climbing title for the second straight year... Walt Fitze took home the gold medal in parallel bars ... lettermen: Walt Fitze, Bob Argentieri, Bob Fuller (Co-Capt.), Mike Fleming, Norm Gunn, Walt Price (Co-Capt.) and Jim Phelps.

Coach Frank Scott arrived at San Diego State in 1947. He has been guiding light of successful golf teams and intramurals programs ever since. "Scotty" is a graduate of Grinnell College and the University of Michigan.
perennial tight match with Loyola topped season's play again ... Aztecs won on the last man, on the last green, with the last putt

San Diego-Loyola duels have been like this for the past four years . . . the Aztec golfers were a fine team when they stayed in their own class defeated Pepperdine, Long Beach State, Colorado and Loyola . . . pro-fessional-loaded Service teams dealt the locals their only defeats, other than setbacks by Arizona and USC, Southern California Intercollegiate Champs

Aztecs hosted SCl Championship for the first time, holding match at the beautiful Rancho Santa Fe course .. . Staters placed fourth behind winner USC, UCLA and darkhorse Pomona Coach Scott well pleased with season considering there was only one returning man from last year's first six . . . most of the squad was green and will be back for another season

BLUE KEY

Blue Key, a national honor fraternity which was founded in 1924 at the University of Florida and now has 86 chapters, came to San Diego State in 1933 when the local men's honorary service organization, Council of Twelve, affiliated.

To give recognition to those men who have displayed themselves as campus leaders and who show a potential for continued leadership and service to the college is the purpose of the organization. Eligibility for membership is based upon scholastic ability, leadership in two campus activities, high moral character, and upper division status. Tapping takes place each Spring and Fall at the President's Dinner.

The group's biggest project is maintaining the Lost and Found. Unclaimed articles are put on sale at the end of each semester to raise money for the two $$ 50$ Blue Key scholarships awarded each year to needy lower division leaders.

Fall semester officers were Cliff Wallace, president; Tom Sturak, vice president; Tom DeRiemer, secretary; and Jim Finster, treasurer. Tom DeRiemer was Spring president, assisted by Harvey Prokop, vice president; Bob Wohl, secretary; and Jerzy Bialy, treasurer. Advisor was Dean C. E. Peterson.

CAP & GOWN

Cap and Gown, patterned after Stanford's Mortar Board, was organized in November, 1932, and has a membership composed of outstanding senior women, who are selected on the basis of constructive service to the college and society.

The year's activities included teas for women leaders on campus and an active-alumnae dinner in January. As membership is limited to 12 in the Fall and 15 in the Spring, tapping, which takes place at each semester's A.W.S. banquet, is always a matter of great anticipation.

Weekly meetings this year were conducted by Chancellor Barbara Houston. Vice Chancellor and Herald was Gretchen Diez, and Scribe, Bobbie MacFarlan. Advisors are Dean Mary Mendenhall and Mrs. Margaret Perry White

Celebrating the end of exams, many Aztecs packed Mission Beach Ballroom for the biggest event on the fall social calendar, the biannual Blue Book Ball, the success of which was made possible by hours of hard work by spirited Freshmen.

Dancers anxiously awaited the final count on the vote for the fairest of the Queen candidates, each representing one of the 15 campus fraternities.

The last vote counted, the candidates were presented to the audience, with Theta Chi's candidate, lovely Pat McNabb, Belle of the Blue Book Ball, entering last, to be crowned by Frosh President Mort Jorgenson.

As we go to press, we wonder what spring will bring

ALUMS RETURN FOR A DAY

During game half-time activities, which were climaxed by the coronation of the queen, all winning floats were presented to spectators. All other floats were on display in the West parking lot.

A fairly new activity of the Alumni Association, whose president is William S. Miller, is the Aztec Luncheon Club, which meets once each month and is designed to give all alumni a chance to get together. Campus speakers keep alumni abreast of current activities, plans and college progress.

On May 4, in connection with the annual Founders Day Open House on campus, the traditional Aztec Alumni Reunion, sponsored by the Alumni Association, was held. Refreshments and displays of past yearbooks featured the reception in Scripps Cottage.

After two years of hard work, a longawaited dream of the Alumni Association, the Memorial Scholarship Fund, established in December, 1950 , will soon become a reality. This fund will be presented by the Board of Directors to the SDSC scholarship and loans committee, which will award it to worthy students. It is one of the few of its kind existing today in colleges and universities.

All former Aztecs are eligible to join the Alumni Association. Its many activities, closely connected with campus life, and its yearly reunions draw many new members each year.

Under the direction of Homecoming Chairman Joe Rogers, the annual homecoming dance at the U. S. Grant Hotel Friday night before the big game inaugurated this year's celebration.

Highlight of the noon luncheon the following day was the selection of Joan Sieger, Kappa Alpha's candidate, as homecoming queen. She was selected from 21 fraternity and sorority sponsored candidates.

Following the luncheon came the traditional parade, after which Pi Kappa Alpha's chrysanthemum - covered tribute to George Sorenson of the Art department was acclaimed as the sweepstakes winner, bringing the PiKAs their second consecutive sweepstakes trophy. The entry was judged tops over 23 others, all using the theme, "Monty Presents Illustrious Alumni."

Fashioned of varying shades of yellow chrysanthemums in the shape of a huge artist's pallette, the float featured an artist with over-size paint brushes painting a Varga-style pin-up picture. It was also awarded the first-place fraternity trophy.

Over 30,000 chrysanthemums were used on Pi Kappa Alpha's tribute to George Sorenson, chairman of the Fine Arts department. The second consecutive sweepstakes winner for the PiKAs, the float also took top honors in the fraternity division.

THE WINNERS

Winner of the trophies for best sorority float and most novel entry was Kappa Alpho Theta's tribute to Belle Benchley, director of the San Diego Zoo.

The Tekes' tribute to SDSC athletes was awarded the trophy for best portrayal of the theme and also took second-place honors in the fraternity division.

Winner in the independent division was Quetzal Hall's blue and white entry, a salute to foreign teachers.

SIUDENT LIFE

Flag twirlers Betty Padaca and Chris Ruiz try on one of Bob Andrews' fine but inexpensive watches at the College Watch Shop located at the Southeast corner of College Avenue and El Cajon Blvd. Smiling Bob showed the girls some of his sparkling engagement rings too! Note for interested swains: Betty wears size $41 / 2$; Chris can be hooked with a $51 / 2$.

This unusual shot of the campus finds our ladies doing the usual thing on their playfield (right, center). They are keeping in shape doing calisthenics on the lawn in front of the gym, keeping the tummy down so's they won't have to buy "pot holders" when they get older. Other ladies are doing their archery -perhaps so they can coach Dan Cupid into getting them a man.

A.S. Prexy-elect Marcy Brooks is preparing to satisfy that inner urge for delicious apple pie as only Tony's Pies can make it. Tony creates those coveted tasties you eat in the Caf' in his shop at 2985 National Avenue. Officiating at the cash register is Cafe Manager Jerry Bevilacqua.

With pardonable pride Salesman and Ex-Aztec Rupe Crosthwaite is singing the praises of MacGregor Goldsmith football shoes to Equipment Manager Dewey Whitmire. Rupe represents KGM Sports Supply of 1427 1st Avenue, San Diego. Dewey holds forth daily in this field house supply room, counts heavily on Rupe to keep his shelves in quality athletic gear.

This is Genial George Sorenson of the art department. His smile hides the worry that he has as art advisor to Del Sud. For that matter, George was art editor of Del Sud in his undergraduate days, which wasn't yesterday. Mr. Sorenson's youthful appearance is due partially to the fact that he is young.

Emma Benson is happiest when pleasing the patrons of her pcpular Cafe Annex. Why are Aztec Athletes Paul Held, Billy Meyer and Bob Brady happy? They've just bought thirst-quenching Canada Dry Beverages. Connoiseurs on the Mesa like the variety of Canada Dry flavors.

Putting their seal of approval on Bridgford's best hamburger patties are Co-eds Barbara Latham and Marianne Johnston. Proud purveyor of this tasty product is Dick Tracy who claims that selling Bridgford Meats is no mystery to him. "Just give 'em the best," he says. Incidentally, Aztec football fans can thank Bridgford for those savory dogs they consume in such large quantities at the Bowl.

Kay Jeweler Manager Stan Levitt is saying, "I'd like to see your diploma in a case like this some day!" Absorbed in this dream of the future is Johanna Rohrbaugh who is attending S.D.S.C. on a four-year scholarship given by Kay Jewelers of 1026 Fifth Avenue, Downtown, San Diego. Besides sending San Diego County students to Aztecland, this public-spirited store sells the best in jewelry, watches, silverware and many other items. And all members of the faculty and student body should know that "IT'S OK TO OWE KAY."

Nancy Hayter (right), Miss San Diego State College, and her friendly rival Runnerup Peggy Blair, share the spotlight with Arden's Prizewinning ice cream. Miss Blair prefers the Coconut Almond Lulu bar; Miss Hayter is partial to the Arden Prizewinner. Here is one popular quartet, believe you me!

This is the symbol of advanced learning as exhibited by San Diego State College. The library tower as taken from the southeast corner of the main quad is a stately sight. Not so stately is the picture of students bent over books inside the library. Most Aztecs prefer the exterior views of the library, especially in warm weather.

Soup's on at the Campus Elementary School. The kids not only eat with gusto but with their buddies also. Those two boys at upper left have famous fathers. The freckled lad with the striped shirt is Danny Carman, son of our Graduate Manager; at Danny's left is Spencer Milne, offspring of our faculty's Dave Milne.

Choosing your diamond betrothal rings at Jessop's is an enjoyable experience - as evidenced here by popular State College "steady" couple Angie Clark and John Shilling. Helping them make their choice from Jessop's extensive selection is Geo. Carter Jessop Jr. (left). J. Jessop and SonsJewelers since 1870-are famous for their private diamond rooms, credit terms, and exciting collection of betrothal rings in a complete price and style range. For added convenience, Jessop's are located in San Diego, La Jolla and North Park.

What a crowded class room! They must be giving away dishes. Maybe this picture was taken in lieu of roll call. Wouldn't that be a good idea? If the men instead of the women were standing up, this would look like the inside of a San Diego bus.

Forward Looking Furniture for Homes of Tomorrow

Engagees Carol Anderson and Dick Savoy are finding the answer to their toughest post-marital problems at GRAND's block-long floor of furniture. Both Carol and Dick agree that the selection is fine, the quality is tops, the price is right and like most budget-wise prospective newlyweds they are thrilled by the convenient credit terms. These discoveries will save many needless and wearying shopping tours. The Grand department store has two entrances, 11445 th Avenue and 11454 th Avenue.

This is not a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille movie. Our girls learn how to dunk babies as well as doughnuts as part of their liberal education. If that deep-dipped doll in the tub could holler, this motherly tableau would be more realistic. (Our marriage rate might drop off too!)
